NCD HARD TALKS

WHAT in the world is NCD integration and HOW to do it?

World Health
Organization

ABOUT

Noncommunicable diseases (NCDs) account for a large and growing proportion of the burden of disease across the globe. Health service integration is important for the effective long-term management of both communicable diseases and NCDs, including TB, HIV, cardiovascular diseases, diabetes, cancers, chronic respiratory diseases, and mental health disorders.

This webinar delves into the world of integration to decipher its true and practical meaning as it applies to NCD care in low and middle-income countries. What is integration? How can countries do it effectively? Are donors interested in a non-vertical approach to health care?

Join us on 22 September to hear from the experts on the ins and outs of integration
