Annex 1: Detailed Terms of Reference

Complete below or leave the following wording:

1. Purpose of the APW

WHO And UNFPA Sri Lanka is looking for a suitable agency/ entity to support Ministry of Health to formulate the National Strategic Plan (NSP) & M&E plan for National Family planning Programme in Sri Lanka for 2024-2030.

2. Background

Since the introduction of family planning (FP) to Sri Lanka in 1953 and the establishment of the National Family Planning Programme (NFPP), the country has made considerable progress in providing a wide array of FP services. During the period 1993–2000 the overall contraceptive prevalence increased from 66% to 70% mainly contributed by a greater increase in the use of modern methods. However, Contraceptive Prevalence Rate (CPR) was static between 2000 and 2016¹.

In the past decades, the main objective of the NFPP was to control the population growth and to facilitate families to make informed decisions on their desired number of children. The Government affirmed the importance of FP in reducing infant and maternal mortality by integrating Maternal and Child Health (MCH) and FP. Following the International Conference on Population and Development (ICPD) the NFPP shifted from a demographically driven approach to FP to one that is based on human rights and the needs, aspirations, and circumstances of individual women and couples. The said conceptual transformation was evident in latter policies and strategies including Population and Reproductive Health Policy (1998); MCH policy (2012); National Health Strategic Master Plan (2016-2025); National Strategic Plan on Maternal and Newborn Health (2017 -2025); National Strategic Plan on Adolescent and Youth Health (2018-2025) and The Strategic Plan for the Well Women Programme (2019-2023) where family planning is considered as an integral component in the said National strategic plans with the aim of enhancing RMNCAH in Sri Lanka.

An external review, which was conducted on the family planning programme in 2016, highlighted series of strengths and opportunities for improvement under the key sections of enabling environment, supply & demand and proposed short term and long-term recommendations².

COVID-19 pandemic has affected all RMNCAH service delivery including FP services during 2020-2021 period globally as well as nationally. Sri Lanka is currently undergoing the worst ever economic crisis; dual system shocks, impacting the health system. Current economic crisis is seriously affecting FP service delivery extensively from procurement and supply chain management of FP commodities to human resource issues at all levels of health care delivery. Family planning service access by the clients also seems to be affected by increasing rate of inflation, high cost of living and high transport cost - impacting indicators related to family planning and delaying reaching the SDG targets set forth by the country.

Hence, at this juncture, it is imperative to review the NFPP programme delivery in the context of the progress of recommendations made in 2017 by the external review and also to reorient FP programme to suit the current and upcoming challenges of economic crisis which may persists for the next few years.
